The children will find a few examples on their own, and then respond to an invite to the image. □Add to collection□Assign digitally Common Core State StandardsTexas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS)Virginia Standards of Learning (SOL)BC Performance StandardsAlberta Program of StudiesThe Australian Curriculum (ACARA)The Victorian Curriculum (F-10)No standards associated with this content. Write a compelling sentence to go with each image. Rewrite each interrogative sentence so that it is a bold and mature sentence. Rewrite the following sentences as compelling phrases that use you understood as a subject. Highlight the verbs in your sentence that go with you get it. Study each image. Then add a verb to complete each sentence, depending on the image that matches it. Label each image. Write a sentence to answer each of the prompts. Follow the example. 1. You want a cookie. Give me a biscuit! Imperative verbs are sometimes also known as authoritarian verbs because they say about the sentence (you) what to do. Choose the correct verb to go with each step of the recipe. Write it down on the line. Read each sentence. Declare the intent of the sentence? Write your answer on the line. A great mix of work and talking points to review this topic. Read each sentence. Classify the purpose of the sentence and where they go with it. A sentence must have both a subject and a verb. But in a bold sentence, the subject is you, and sometimes the subject is invisible. Write six sentences you hear every day. Complete each sentence below by adding a crazy verb at the beginning. Imagine that you were assigned to escort a visitor from another planet. One of your jobs is to teach your guest about life on earth. Choose the simple task you want to teach your foreign guest. This can include opening a door, leaving your shoes or eating a biscuit. Think of a few login words that you can use as your give to your foreign guest step-by-step directions. Make the imperative verbs known by playing this game with your classmates! First, write a verb on each card. Cut out your cards. Now mingle with your classmates! With all your cards face down, ask your classmate to draw a card. Next Teach children who can't read?
